COMPILED BY
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
A. P. SANDLES, SECRETARY

COLUMBUS, OHIO:
THE F. J. HEER PRINTING CO.

First of its Kind.

In compiling and publishing a classified Roster of Ohio owners of pure bred live stock, the State Board of Agriculture has had assurance that such a service would be appreciated by the public.

The task has been arduous. This book is not without error. Some names are undoubtedly left out, but diligent search and inquiry were made to secure all those entitled to be printed herein.

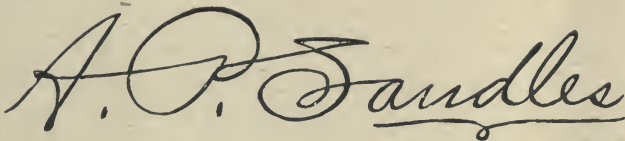

The sources, from which information was obtained, were Registry Associations, State and County Fair entries, and Crop Correspondents. Notice asking for names of owners of pure bred stock was sent to all county newspapers. This book will show the centers of good breeding.

This book shows that there is a "Grand Army" of Breeders in Ohio. It indicates the town and county where each may be found, and the particular breed he owns.

As a rule the owners of pure breeds are progressive citizens who vote in the forenoon. A first-class animal seldom has a second-class owner.

This Roster, like the State Fair, is designed to bring together those who have something to sell and those who have something to buy. It is a Cross Roads.

Community breeding is urged. When buyers seek a market they want to go where a whole community is engaged in breeding the kind of animals they want. Breeders should urge their neighbors to get the habit. The advantages of community breeding are greater than the disadvantages of competition. A buyer should not go out of a community without leaving money.

Secretary.

Notice.

A Second Book of this kind is to be published, and any corrections or additions to the list as printed herein are asked to be sent to the Department of Agriculture, Columbus, Ohio, at once. The object being to get an accurate and complete list of all owners.

A Big Department.

The State Board of Agriculture.

But few people know that The State Board of Agriculture is one of the big Departments of the state government.

Its offices and rooms are in the State House at Columbus.

Its work is classified under twelve bureaus or divisions.

The State Fair Division gets most of the advertising.

During the year nearly one thousand persons are on the pay roll of the Department.

Over 80 tons of mail matter are handled annually. Several hundred letters are often received in a day.

It employs chemists, architects, doctors, instructors, demonstrators, inspectors, scientists, specialists, and lecturers.

Its publications reach every nook and corner of Ohio. More than three thousand correspondents send reports from every township in the state.

The Department is in close touch with Grain Dealers, Millers, Cannerymen, Granges, Institutes, Breeders, Nurserymen, Fruit Growers, County Fairs, Bankers, Newspapers, Railroads, Manufacturers and Dairymen.

Colleges, Chambers of Commerce, Y. M. C. A's., Teachers, Preachers and city folks are taking great interest in the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

In 1911 nearly $100,000 was turned into the state treasury.

The State Fair Ground and buildings represent a value of almost $2,000,000.

The State Serum Farm and Laboratories will cost over $100,000. It is located east of Columbus, in Licking County, on the Ohio Electric Railway. It is the first permanent, and finest institution of its kind in the world. It is for the purpose of controlling hog cholera and other animal diseases. Foreign countries and a dozen states have sent representatives to study its work.

Over $20,000 is collected in license fees from commercial fertilizer companies.

Over $10,000 is collected in license fees from commercial feed manufacturers.

A quarter million people attend the farmer institutes which are held under the supervision of this Department.

The State Board of Agriculture is, by law, the State Board of Live Stock Commissioners, and has supervision of all outbreaks of contagious, infectious, and dangerous diseases. The State Veterinarian and a corps of assistants look after this Division of the work.

The inspection of nurseries and orchards require a Chief Inspector and a number of deputy inspectors.

Ten men compose the State Board of Agriculture. They are appointed by the Governor for a term of five years, two being named each year. Governor Harmon made the board bi-partisan, five Republicans and five Democrats. They serve without pay. Their actual expenses are paid by the state. They devote from forty to fifty days to the work annually.

The Secretary is the executive officer of the board. The Secretary is elected annually by the Board. Meetings are held monthly, and if occasion and emergency require, special meetings are called. The work of the Department is conducted under the following twelve Divisions:

1. State Fair.
2. Farm Land.
3. Farm Labor.
4. Bee Inspection.
5. Statistical Work.
6. Farmer Institutes.
7. Crop Reporting Service.
8. Live Stock Commission.
9. Agricultural Promotion Work.
10. Nursery and Orchard Inspection.
11. Fertilizer Inspection and Analyses.
12. Feed Stuff Inspection and Analyses.

BRIEF HISTORICAL SKETCHES OF LEADING BREEDS.

AMERICAN SHETLAND PONY CLUB.

SHELTIE.

The Shetland pony, as every one knows, is a native of the Shetland Islands, which lie to the northeast of Scotland. Among the rocky hills of these islands the ponies have run at large for hundreds of years, living on the stunted heather and the rough grass which they could find for themselves. The diminutive size of the pony may be attributed to the conditions under which, for so many generations, the brave little fellow had to struggle for existence.

The origin of the breed is not known. As far back as we have any history of the country he was there, and it is well known that no other breed of horses can show as long or as pure a pedigree, unless we except the Arab.

The Shelties have always been remarkable for the wonderful amount of strength they possess, and the amount of fatigue they are capable of enduring. They are easily tamed, and when kindly treated show no vicious traits. In size they range from 30 to 46 inches in height. In this country the greater number registered are from 34 to 44 inches.

"The Shetland pony is the most lovable of animals in the wide creation. They are sprightly and active as terriers, sure-footed as mules, patient as donkeys. The horse is accredited as the noblest of the lower animals, and the Shetland pony stands at the head of this noblest race, as the most intelligent and faithful of them all."

There have been over twelve thousand Shetlands registered by the American Shetland Pony Club which was organized in 1888, the first volume of the Stud Book being published in 1893.

The membership of the Club includes breeders and owners of Shetlands located in all parts of the United States, and in Canada.

The present officers of the Club are as follows: Joel Malmsberry, President, North Benton, Ohio; A. G. Lupton, Vice President, Hartford City, Ind.; J. M. Wade, Secretary-Treasurer, Lafayette, Ind.

J. M. WADE,
Secretary-Treasurer.

THE AMERICAN BREEDERS AND IMPORTERS PERCHERON REGISTRY COMPANY.

It is a well established fact, that the Percheron horse was bred up by the judicious crossing of Arab stallions on the heavier mares of that part of France, formerly called Normandy, as a very great per cent of the fashionable bred percheron horses of today trace to the great Jean Le Blanc (739) who, it is claimed by the French, was a direct descendant of one of these imported Arab stallions, named Gallipoli.

Jean Le Blanc was foaled in 1825 and died at the age of 32 years, free from blemish.

The percheron horse has spread from the place of his origin to almost all parts of the globe and has proven his ability to withstand the heat and cold of almost any climate.

He is the ideal draft horse, having the best feet, the cleanest limbs and the most enduring mettle of any of the draft breeds.

The first Percheron brought to America was a mare named Joan 561; imported 1839 by Ed Harris, of Morretown, New York. In 1851 Fullington & Martin of Milford Center, Ohio, imported Louis Napoleon 281, in the same year Dr. Marcus Brown of Circleville, Ohio, imported Normandy 351 (Pleasant Valley Bill). In 1852 Erastus Martin, Woodstock, Ohio, imported Rollin 418. In 1857 the Darby Plains Importing Company of Milford Center, Ohio, imported Nonesuch 346 (Old Bob) and a mare named Doll 540.

To these Ohio importations the Percheron horse owes his start in America. This Association was incorporated in 1905.

The officers are as follows: M. T. Moorehead, President, Plainfield, Ohio; O. N. Wilson, Vice President, Kittanning, Pa.; John A. Forney, Secretary-Treasurer, Plainfield, Ohio.

JOHN A. FORNEY,
Secretary-Treasurer.

THE O. I. C. SWINE BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION

In order to give the origin of the O. I. C. swine, it will be necessary to give the history of the Chester County breed, which never was very clear. Some claim that a certain sea captain brought a large Bedfordshire boar from England, and that said boar was crossed on the native sows of Chester County, from which sprang the Chester County breed; others claiming that they are a cross of the best hogs in England with the Chinese or Siamese.

In 1865, when the late L. B. Silver was on a trip through the eastern States, looking over the various herds of thoroughbreds, he was emphatically informed, while in Albany, New York, that an old respected citizen of Albany county, a few miles out of the city, was entitled to the credit of originating what is known as the Chester County breed of swine, but known in Albany as the White Hog. He further stated that some enterprising Chester county fellow had procured some of these white hogs, and propagated them in Chester county—some breeding them in their purity, others crossing them on the native Chester sows—and all that were bred in Chester county very soon became the Chester County Whites. It would appear that the respectable old gentleman of Albany county did not prosecute the breeding of the white hog to any great extent, or else sold out entirely to the Chester county chaps, as the swine breeding community have not heard much from the old gentleman, nor of his "White Hog" as he chose to name them.

The science of botany teaches that, in the vegetable world, the growth and perpetuation of plants are governed by fixed law. The principle of fixed law runs through all nature, the animal and mineral as well as the vegetable kingdom. In live stock, its perpetuation is controlled by certain fixed principles of breeding.

The difference in the breeds is apparent to any observer of live stock. Some take on fat readily, and mature at almost any age, while others do not; some have a tendency to convert what they eat largely into milk, while others are directly opposite, etc. As previously stated, by close observation we have been enabled to search out and find the rules which govern the transmission of the various qualities, that have aided us in great measure, at will to breed animals possessing the distinct characteristics desired. We find that the maxim that like produces like is a pretty safe rule to follow, but does not hold good in every case. The question would next arise, why these exceptions to the rule, and the cause, as there never was an effect without a cause. When like fails to get like, in breeding animals, you have the evidence at once that one of the parents, or both, are not thoroughbred. If an animal has the power to transmit its own qualities, it is an evidence that he or she is thoroughbred; in other words, it is because it possesses them of itself—they are inherent in the animal. If we breed with two animals that are unlike, it will be observed that the one having the strongest fixity of type, or the one that is thoroughbred, or approximates nearest thereto, will give character to the offspring. A thorough male and female, both of the same type, bred together, will produce offspring possessing qualities of both parents, but they will be intensified in the progeny, and it will possess more power to transmit its qualities than did its parents; but if the parents possess opposite qualities the case is quite different.

To illustrate, we here insert Flint's plan of reducing breeding to a mathematical calculation. It is as follows:

"You are familiar with the rules of mathematics—let us apply them here to make the point plain. Take two animals similar in type, but one more strongly marked than the other; let 100 represent the quality of one, and 75 the other, put these animals together, and the offspring will be represented by 100 plus 75, or 175. But let the parents be dissimilar, and the qualities of the one you most desire be represented by 100 and the other by 75, the result will be 100 minus 75, or 25. This may not be strictly and mathematically true in practice, but it is a fair illustration of the effect of such breeding. A male long bred in a certain line possesses long-bred powers, and will be likely to transmit them, though they will be weakened in his progeny from a low bred female. If he be very strong in his power of transmission, he may overcome the power of the female, and transmit his qualities, so that in outward appearance the offspring may appear like himself."

The reader will here readily see the importance of using none but thoroughbred males, at all events, if he should be situated so that he is not able to have all of his breeding stock thorough, as the male is the parent of so much greater number than the female, as the male is kept generally to so many females. It is one of the first principles in breeding, that longbred animals have the most power to transmit their qualities. If you breed animals that possess this power in different degrees, the one will give character to the progeny in which this power predominates. It follows, then, that if we admit that the law above alluded to is a fixed fact—and no careful, thoughtful stock breeder will deny it—we should only breed from the best animals; not the best looking merely, but those possessing the best and strongest hereditary qualities.

What has been hinted at will give a pretty correct idea of the ORIGIN OF THE O. I. C.'s. First, the parent stock was selected with great care, in Chester county, from time to time, from the best herds, and as many as possible, in order to have as large a number as possible not akin.

The object was to breed a hog that would be most likely to meet the wants of the farmer or stock-breeder; feeling sure that if successful in establishing a uniform perfect type, combining a perfect form, well developed hams and shoulders, nicely proportioned head and ears, easy fattening qualities, round ribs, small offal, and yet retain the great length and size, a triumph would be gained that would be appreciated by thousands of the farmers and stock breeders of America and other portions of the world. How near success has been attained almost numberless letters from every state in the Union and foreign countries, extolling the O. I. C.'s, giving them the preference over all other breeds of swine, sufficiently testify. In several instances, a single O. I. C. has made over a thousand pounds of dressed pork, at less than two years old, and yet these enormously large hogs retained the other desirable properties referred to. How was this attained? Simply, as heretofore stated, by making such selections as embodied the properties desired, and by making the laws governing breeding a study and putting same into practice; and by careful selections and adhering strictly to the laws governing breeding. O. I. C.'s are white, and are noted for rapid growth, large shoulders and hams, round ribs, head and offal parts small, giving the animal a round, symmetrical appearance—withal a truly valuable hog.

The officers are as follows: Hon. T. G. Bronson, Honorary President, E. Hardwick, Vermont; Hon. A. M. Foster, President, Rushville, Ill.; Charles Griffith, Vice President, Greenville, Ill., O. C. Vernon, Secretary-Treasurer, Millersburg, Indiana.

O. C. VERNON,
Secretary-Treasurer.

NATIONAL CHESTER WHITE RECORD ASSOCIATION.

The Chester Whites originated from a male hog, imported in 1818, by Capt. James Jefferis, who was captain of a merchant vessel trading between Philadelphia, Pa., and Liverpool, England. The captain owned a farm about two miles west of West Chester, Pa., to which place the hog was sent. He is described as having been a large, growthy, rather coarse hog, with heavy ears, and what are known as freckles in the skin, but entirely white as to hair. The cross with him and the neighborhood sows, of no particular breed, seems to have produced a better type of hog than was common, so much so as to attract considerable attention. The hog was said to have been bred by the Duke of Bedford, and so at first his get were called Bedfords, and not until 1848 were they named Chester Whites. The naming was the result of the competition at the Baltimore and Richmond, Va., fairs between Benj. Hickman, of Chester county and Chalkley Harvey of Delaware county, where both having won the same number of ribbons, it was left to Thos. Cheyney and Aaron Clements to decide, who named them Chester County Whites, since shortened to Chester Whites. About that time there was quite a keen competition between the Harveys, Woods, Hickmans, Strodes, Shanes, and others who exhibit at the fairs, and the breed was practically established as a distinct breed, and attracted widespread attention. Their early maturity, ease of fattening, and prolificness, led to a large demand for breeders. This was taken advantage of by unscrupulous dealers, who shipped any white hog they could buy, as a Chester White; the result can easily be imagined and for a time brought some disrepute on them as a breed. To remedy this, about 1880 an effort was started to establish a record of those that were known to be pure bred. An organization was formed of the most prominent breeders, and Mr. E. R. Moody of Eminence, Ky., made secretary, under the name of the National Chester White Record Association. The first volume was published in 1884, since which time a continuous record has been kept up, publishing volumes as occasion required, the 15th now going to press. The Chesters are now a distinctly recognized breed and are very widely distributed, are known from Maine to California, also shipments of breeders have been made to South America, Cuba, Canada and other places. Our volumes show recorders in twenty-six different states. The market demands of recent years have led to the breeding of a rather smaller, neater hog, that does not make the heavy weights of former years. More however because of early marketing, than any real reduction in their natural size. A pound to a pound and a half a day, makes a marketable hog at nine to ten months of age, and this with good feed, and care the Chesters will do. I have marketed Chesters myself that made one pound a day of dressed weight.

DUROC JERSEY SWINE.

For the data of the historical origin of the Duroc Jersey Breed of Swine I am largely indebted to Prof. C. S. Plumb, Director of Animal Husbandry, O. S. U.

The breed is distinctly American, being the commingling of blood of a few distinct lines of breeding tracing back to an ancestry of no particular type or peculiar characteristic other than of a red or sandy color, which perhaps accounts for the peculiar predominancy of red color produced in cross breeding the Duroc Jersey with other breeds.

Exact date of inportation of Duroc Jersey ancestry into America is unknown; the first record of the breeding of Red Swine comes from Guinea, Western Africa. Their transportation and introduction into America is probably due to the slave trading vessels and their owners, the date not far from 1800. There are records of this breed in New York and Iowa in 1850.

Dark red colored Portuguese Swine imported into Massachusetts by Daniel Webster in 1852, into Kentucky in 1837 by Henry Clay.

Early Berkshire history shows that breed to have been more or less red in color.

The Duroc was established in New York in 1823, the product of breeding of Red Swine obtained in New York, or imported from England, deriving its name in honor of a famous stallion by the name of Duroc.

The Jersey Red was long a favorite in New Jersey and the east, being a very large and coarse individual.

The present day Duroc Jersey Swine is the result of amalgamation of the blood of these red breeds referred to, of which a standard of type was established in 1877.

The early eighties mark its first distinction of prominence, and from Breeders' standpoint, the Duroc Jersey may be classed with other popular breeds of swine.

The first American Duroc Jersey Swine Breeders' Association was formed in 1883 and improvement of breed began with union of breeders interests, and the Duroc Jersey became standard of breeders of all red hogs of America. This statement does not refer to the Tamworth breed of Red Swine as they are native of Central England.

To date the highest priced single individual of this breed sold is Boar, Royal Chief, $2,800; Sow, Speaks Wonder, $1,900.

The highest sale price average is $365 per head.

This breed introduced into Ohio about 1880, as to its adaptability, development, and popularity, a stock yard census in any commercial center will show.

The Ohio Duroc Jersey Swine Breeders' Association was formed at Columbus, 1910. The present officers are: Robt. Watt, President; S. E. Morton, Vice President; Lewis Slack, Treasurer.

THE AMERICAN YORKSHIRE CLUB.

THE LARGE IMPROVED YORKSHIRE.

The modern Yorkshire originated in England nearly two hundred years ago. This modern type was perfected from a large white breed of hogs, tracing back some two hundred years more. The breed has therefor been bred, pure as to blood, for about four centuries. Bakewell, the famous English Live Stock Breeder of the 18th century was the first improver of the breed.

In England they have always raised their Yorkshires on a diversified diet; giving great quantities of pasture, cured grasses, field roots, dairy by-products, nitrogenous grains, etc. This is the reason the Yorkshire has attained and kept the bacon form and retained all their original vigor and fecundity.

Because of the centuries of pure blood behind them the Yorkshires are extremely prepotent. They are a long, deep-sided hog, with a strong back, not very wide, but attaining greater weights than the short, thick, American breeds. Because of their conformation they are very hardy, vigorous and prolific. They are great grazers and will consume much roughage even in cured form. The meat produced from this breed is in great demand, both by the packers and the ultimate consumers because of the fine quality of the meat and the small waste in killing. Yorkshire pork outsells all other pork by a handsome margin on the world's markets.

This breed is found equal in numbers to all other breeds together in England, Scotland, Ireland, Denmark and Canada. They are also found in fair numbers in every hog growing country of the world.

The American Registry Association was organized in 1892 by Major A. G. Wilcox, of Minnesota. From this beginning the club has grown to a membership of about 500. The largest herd of pure bred Yorkshires in the world is owned by T. H. Canfield, of Minnesota. In this country the breed is distributed along the eastern coast and in the northern tier of states in large numbers, while, of course some are to be found in every state.

Officers for the American Yorkshire Club for 1911 were: W. H. Fisher, President, Columbus, Ohio; T. H. Canfield, Vice President, Lake Park, Minn.; Harry G. Krum, Secretary-Treasurer, White Bear, Minn.

HARRY G. KRUM,

AMERICAN SHROPSHIRE REGISTRY ASSOCIATION.

At the show of the Royal Agricultural Society of England at Gloucester in 1853, the Shropshire, as a distinct breed of sheep, was first recognized, special prizes for this breed being offered at that show. The reputation of the Shropshire, however, was well known to agriculturists long before that time, and while we are told that before that date certain crosses were made with the Southdown and other breeds, it is asserted that after that period the Shropshire breeder has not deviated a line from pure breeding.

Little is known of the ancestors of the Shropshire, but it is generally accepted that they are descended from the sheep of the Morfe Common, a tract bordering on the Shannon, near Bridgenorth. These were a black-faced, brown or spotted-faced sheep, of moderate size with small horns. The horns have been eliminated from the modern Shropshire. Another ancient breed believed to be among the ancestors of the Shropshire is the Cannock Chase sheep, a very old race having dark faces and points.

Shropshires were imported to America as early as 1833. From 1875, importations increased steadily, the breed rapidly becoming popular. It easily leads all other breeds in America today, and is, in fact, a world-wide favorite.

The modern Shropshire is noted for its strong constitution and hardiness. It has been called "the farmer's sheep, a rent-paying sheep, a tenant's sheep. It is a money-making, wool-producing, mutton-carrying sheep. It is a bank, a save-all, a frugal-living, quick-fattening and hardy sheep."

The wool is very close and even. They yield a heavier fleece than ordinary Merinos, and their mutton fully equals that of the Southdowns.

The American Shropshire Registry Association was established in 1884 in LaFayette, Indiana. Since the date of organization nearly three hundred and fifty thousand pure bred Shropshires have been entered on the records of the Association.

The present officers of the Association are: James C. Duncan, President, Lewiston, N. Y.; G. Howard Davison, First Vice President, Millbrook, N. Y.; J. M. Wade, Secretary-Treasurer, LaFayette, Indiana.

THE CONTINENTAL DORSET CLUB.

DORSET SHEEP.

William Ellis in his "Shepherds' Guide," published in 1749 in London, described the West Country sheep as having "white faces, white and short legs, broad loins and fine curled wool. The Dorsetshire variety being especially more careful of their young than any other." This seems to be the first printed word about Dorset sheep. Soon some intelligent, careful farmers began breeding these sheep and before long they were exhibited at fairs. The record of the prize winners dates from 1852. The Dorset Horn Sheep Breeders' Association of England was organized June 1, 1892.

The Continental Dorset Club was organized March 10, 1898.

Dorset Horn sheep are now to be found in all English speaking countries.

In the United States probably the states of New York and Virginia have the greatest number of flocks, but nearly every state has some. Canada has probably more Dorsets than of any other breed.

The property of the Dorset sheep which remarkably distinguishes them is the fecundity of the female from the readiness to receive the males at an early season. They produce from 130 to 180 per cent. of lambs and have been known to produce twice a year.

Our best and most successful shepherds, however, endeavor to have the lambs dropped in the fall, October and November, as is the English custom, thus often having fat lambs for Christmas.

By far the most profitable flocks of sheep in America are flocks of Dorsets, or grade Dorsets, kept for their early lambs, which are sent dressed to the great cities in winter and early spring. One Ohio Dorset breeder sold his first 100 sucking Dorset lambs one winter for just an even $1,500.00.

Its present officers are: Joseph B. Henderson, President, Burgettstown, Pa.; Harry Wheeler, Vice President, Elburn, Ill.; Joseph E. Wing, Secretary-Treasurer, Mechanicsburg, Ohio.

DORSET HORN SHEEP BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.

The Dorset Horn Sheep Breeders' Association of America was organized at Pittsburgh, Penn., March 31, 1891. At that meeting the following named breeders were present: J. M. Ham, Washington Hollow, N. Y., T. S. Cooper, Coopersburg, Pa., Chas. I. Allen, Terryville, Conn., M. A. Cooper, Washington, Pa., Wm. E. Kimsey, Angola, Indiana, M. M. Small, Cooperstown, Pa., J. B. Wylie, Washington, Pa. This organization sprang into life with a membership of thirty-one and to-day has a membership of two hundred and forty-five. This Association has the distinction of being the oldest organization for the registry of Dorset sheep in the world. The English Association was not organized until the fall of 1892. Dorset sheep are the oldest known breed of English sheep. They have been preserved unmixed from the earliest period and are the best of all horned breeds. They are possessed of the greatest fecundity and are also the most prolific breed known.

The dams are great milkers and the lambs mature at an earlier age than the lambs of any other breed. The first direct importation of Dorset sheep into the United States was made by Adin Thayer, Hoosic Falls, New York, about the 10th of June, 1887, and were landed at Boston, Mass. About the time this import was made, Mr. Thayer was treasurer of the New York State Agricultural Society, and Mr. J. S. Woodward, Secretary. It was at the suggestion of Mr. Woodward that Mr. Thayer wrote to a brother in England requesting him to visit Dorsetshire and ascertain at what price they could be purchased. His brother did as requested and purchased twelve Dorsets from the well-known flocks of Henry Mayo, Cokes Frome, Dorchester, England, and sent them to Mr. Thayer by express. In this connection and for the information of the reader we would say that in the fall of 1885, E. A. Stanford, Sternny, England, entered port at Quebec, Canada, with fifty Dorset ewes and six rams and proceeded to Markham, Canada. The ewes were purchased by V. E. Fuller, Hamilton, Canada. A few of the ewes were purchased by a Mr. Burleigh and taken to Vermont. No record was ever kept of the Burleigh purchase and the writer has never been able to obtain any information regarding Mr. Burleigh, his flock, or his address. The first certificate of record ever issued for a Dorset sheep in the United States was dated June 23, 1891, and bore the seal of Dorset Horn Sheep Breeders' Association of America.

The present officers are: H. C. Pratt, President, New York; M. A. Cooper, Secretary, Washington, Pa.

STANDARD DELAINE MERINO SHEEP BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Delaine Merino sheep has been a gradual development of the Spanish, and later the American Merino, the purpose of his breeders being to produce a smooth, well-formed body bearing a fleece of fine Delaine wool. A medium-sized carcass and a medium weight, long-stopled fleece which would bring the highest market price has been the aim in breeding. The beginnings of the Standard Delaines were made in the years from 1885 to 1890, and were principally in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan, among the breeders of America or Vermont Merinos, who at that time were aware of the demand for a plain Merino sheep with a Delaine fleece and some mutton qualities, and sought to meet it. Later, as the mutton factor in sheep assumed increasing importance the Standard Delaine breeders sought more size and better form. Some attained this by selection and breeding within the limited strains of the old-time blood lines, while others sought greater and quicker results by the infusion of blood from the Rambouillet families. All were pure Merino blood, the only difference being that of families. Whatever method pursued, the sheep of this breeding produced to meet the demand of the general farmer and flockmaster have here found a place of record, and the results attained by their breeders are amply demonstrated by the fact that this style of Merino sheep is very popular not only in all parts of America, but also in Africa and Australia; in fact, is found in every country where Merino sheep find favor. Prices ranging from $150 to $500 have been paid for the best rams.

The Association was organized in 1889 and the present officers are: A. G. Wood, President, Saline, Mich.; E. N. Ball, Vice President, Hamburg, Mich.; R. M. Wood, Secretary-Treasurer, Saline, Mich.

ROSCOE M. WOOD,

AMERICAN HAMPSHIRE SHEEP ASSOCIATION.

The ridge lands lying south of London are called the South Downs and the sheep upon them are named for the hills upon which they fed. Reared upon the soil that furnished but scanty herbage they were small in size, but compact in form and were noted for the excellency of their flesh. Their home was in Sussex. As the chalk lands extend westward into Hampshire the soil becomes deeper and more fertile affording better pasturage and heavier cultivated crops. As a result of this the sheep upon these lands were large, coarser, and stronger than the South Downs. Through centuries of neighborhood existence the sheep along the border lines of these territories very naturally merged together. We therefore find in the earliest accounts of the sheep of the Hampshire district that those in the eastern and northern sections of the district were more compact and symmetrical in form with finer wool than those in the western portions. Gradually it became apparent that each of the types mentioned had its peculiar value—the smaller, more symmetry with superior fattening qualities, while the larger were more prolific, were better mothers and had much greater hardness of constitution. Again while these larger animals had much of the symmetry and fattening qualities of the smaller ones they far surpassed them in early maturity and freedom from disease. There were thus clearly indicated the lines upon which the improvement must be made. The improvement was carried on by the farmers themselves and was extended over the entire Hampshire District. The admixture resulting from centuries of co-existence followed by the careful and painstaking selections of the many breeders who foresaw the advantages to be gained there by still farther unified blood. The course taken was therefore more the mingling of different strains of kindred blood than the crossing of different breeds. The Hampshire sheep then are clearly descended from an original hardy race peculiar to the country from whence they came. The strength of constitution and size have been retained and enlarged upon and are a characteristic of the animal. James Rawlaence, the now Honorable Secretary of the English Hampshire Down flock-book in 1858 wrote "About the beginning of the present century the sheep breeders of Hampshire began to bestir themselves and enterprising farmers procured rams from Sussex, of the South Down breed, care being taken to select the largest, coarsest, most vigorous and blackest faced individuals possible."

In Wilkinson "The Farming of Hampshire," I find the following "The Hampshire Down sheep are the glory of the country as respects Live Stock."

John Wilson, Professor of Agriculture in the University of Edinburgh wrote in 1855 "The rapidly increasing breed of Hampshire sheep appears to be the result of a cross or intermingling of the bloods of the pure South Down and the horned sheep of Hampshire and Wiltshire by which the hard working qualities of the former is combined with the superior size and constitution of the latter to the improvement of both." This matter is of importance because the remarkable prepotency of the Hampshires which is everywhere recognized can be accounted for only upon the fact of the distinctly local origin of the breed. By a wise system of breeding and by skillful management the Hampshire Down has been brought to his present state of perfection. He now illustrates what breeders of skill and intelligence can accomplish in preserving vigor of constitution and hardihood and in adding to them the desirable qualities of early maturity, disposition to lay on flesh with the fat and lean properly intermingled, and symmetry of form with a most valuable and useful fleece of wool. His head is rather large with a somewhat roman face, neck long and usually well set on, shoulders sloping, brisket deep with abundant room for the vital organs, back straight with a good spring of rib going around the barrel, loin broad, quarters long, hams round and heavy, legs bony and strong, and feet large and open with a tough sole and crust. The face and legs are the blackest of any of the down breeds. The wool is of medium length and strong fiber. It is used largely for making cheviots, tweeds and business cloths and commands the top prices everywhere. Flocks of breeding ewes average seven to ten pounds per fleece. Mature rams will weigh 300 or more pounds and mature ewes 200 pounds or more. The writer has owned a flock of forty ewes that weighed on the scales near 10,000 pounds. Ewes breed to a great age and then fatten well. Based upon their constitutional vigor the claim seems well founded that a Hampshire ram will serve more ewes than a ram of any other except possibly a mountain breed which are not in evidence in this country. The ewes are very prolific, are excellent mothers and great milkers, having udders like small cows. Mr. Morton, late editor of the Agricultural Gazette once wrote under the caption of "The Coming Sheep." "There is no race in England or the world that can vie with the Hampshire in the quick production of large sized lambs." Let any unprejudiced person attend the ram sales in Salisbury, England in July, each year and if he has never before seen Hampshire lambs he will be astonished indeed. He will there be shown lambs that will offer to him a pound weight per quartier, since the day they were born — four pounds per day for all the days of their life. This rapid growth is simply owing to his great constitutional vigor thus enabling him to eat, digest and assimilate a large amount of food. No such gains can be had, without the most liberal feeding possible to secure. He is the greatest butcher's lamb that has ever existed. The quality which gives the Hampshire Down perhaps his greatest practical value to the sheep raiser at large is his marked prepotency, viz. the power to transmit with unerring certainty his own characteristics upon his offspring. In this he excels all others. The surpassing excellence of the Hampshire cross is well illustrated by the fact that at the great English shows the prizes for cross bred sheep almost invariably go to those with a large admixture of Hampshire blood. Indeed this has become so universal that breeders of other sheep are even now clamoring for classes in which Hampshire blood shall be excluded. The value of the Hampshire cross is forcibly illustrated in the Oxford Downs, a breed that were produced by crossing Hampshire and Cotswold blood. Blood from crossing is much needed in this country. The time is even now here when the exclusively wool sheep can no longer be raised with a profit to the farmer. Flocks can only be improved in its mutton qualities by crossing with pure bred mutton rams and for this purpose the Hampshire has no equal. Each of the down breeds has its peculiar excellencies, all are valuable, but for a combination of hardiness of constitution, freedom from disease, ability to withstand grief, whether of exposure or shortness of feed, general useful qualities, excellence of flesh, value of fleece, strength and vigor of lambs, quick development and fitness for market, motherly qualities of ewes, docility and prepotency when crossed on other breeds or common stock it may well be doubted whether an equal to the Hampshire can anywhere be found to-day on the face of the earth. We think not. They have been brought to the United States in considerable numbers and found most admirably adapted to our needs. The American Hampshire Association was organized in 1889, and for a few years made seemingly but slow progress, but in later years it has gone on to the fore front by leaps and bounds until in the year 1910—the last year in which we have the full statistics, the demand had grown so great that more Hampshires were imported into the United States than of all other breeds combined not only more, but more than three times as many as all others combined. What further comment is needed as to their popularity or value. Vol. I, of the American Flock Book contained 65 pages all told. Vol. XI, which is recently from the press nearly 800 pages closely printed and replete with pedigrees of the aristocrats, handsome photos and information relative to the breed.

The officers of the organization are as follows: Merrit C. Ring, President, Neillsville, Wis.; Frank J. Hagenbarth, Vice President, Spencer, Idaho; W. R. Bane, Fairbury, Ill., C. O. Judd, Kent, Ohio, W. Geo. Cavan, 64 Illinois St., Chicago, Ill., Comfort A. Tyler, Secretary-Treasurer, Coldwater, Mich.

Probably no other breed of sheep on the face of the earth has made such rapid strides toward popularity during the last five years as the Hamps., and all the time "There is a reason."

Secretary Am. Hamp. Sheep Ass'n.

OHIO RED POLLED CATTLE BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. RED POLLED CATTLE.

Originated in Norfolk and Suffolk Counties, England. The exact date not known. The files of the Norwich Mercury shows that in 1778 these cattle were bred there.

The first importation of Red Polled Cattle to the U. S. was made in 1873 for breeding purposes. From this time on the importations increased rapidly and they now are bred in almost every state.

Ohio has close to one hundred Red Polled Cattle breeders.

Red Polled cattle are a distinct breed. They are hornless; red in color; weight, mature bulls average 2,000 lbs., and cows 1,300 lbs.; are docile and mature early. Bred for milk and beef. Are called the Dual Purpose Cattle.

It is nothing unusual for cows to give from 7,000 to 10,000 lbs. of milk in one year. An official dairy test at the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y. showed the "best" or (First Prize) cow to be a Guernsey, second a Red Poll.

At the International Live Stock Show, Chicago, Ill., slaughter test of all breeds and grades of cattle complete shows the Red Polls have taken third prizes several times.

As to prices, it has been nothing unusual for good animals to bring from $500 to $1,000. I cannot give the highest price ever paid for any one animal.

The Red Polled Cattle Association of Ohio was organized in 1905, it has a membership of fifty or more.

Frank Hartline, President, Strasburg, O.; Homer C. Price, Secretary and Treasurer, Columbus, O.

The Red Polled Cattle Club of America was organized in 1883.

The officers are: P. G. Henderson, President, Central City, Iowa; Harley A. Martin, Secretary, Gotham, Wis.; W. S. Hill, Treasurer, Alexandria, S. D.

THE AYRSHIRE COW.

The Ayrshire is a Scotch breed of cattle, originating in the West of Scotland, between the mountains on the East and the ocean on the West.

Their origin and early development is veiled in some obscurity, but it is sufficient for this article to say that the country itself was calculated to harden or kill, and the Scotchman gave no shelter from the mountain winds or ocean storms, expecting his cows to bring home an udder full of rich milk under any circumstances, and the cow that could not do it was disposed of.

With all the roughness of the Scotch treatment he also demanded that his Ayrshire should look shapely and handsome, so we have a cow that combines the highest dairy ability with perfect conformation.

The Ayrshire cow is of medium size, weighing about one thousand pounds, having a small bony head, broad forehead, somewhat dished, large, full eyes, broad muzzle, strong jaw, slim neck, joined firmly to head and shoulders, sharp withers, deep through the chest, ribs well sprung from back, enlarging rapidly from the shoulders, giving large space for storing roughage, and heavy hind quarters, giving her a marked wedge shape.

Legs short and straight, back from head to tail straight, except a slight rise on the pelvic arch, udder large and square, strongly hung to belly and thighs, and, comparatively level when young is never greatly pendulous.

The Ayrshire cow has four teats of fair length, placed on the four corners of the udder and as a rule gives an equal amount of milk from each quarter of her udder. She is easily kept, because of a good appetite and not at all dainty about her food, taking greedily whatever is offered.

At pasture it is the same; she spends no time in finding sweet bunches of grass, but takes it as it comes, and if grass is not to be had, will browse for a living.

She eats rapidly, and when full begins immediately to chew her cud, and it is very rare to see an Ayrshire when she is not either eating or chewing her cud.

An Ayrshire seems to realize that much is expected from her, and in order not to disappoint her owner she must lose no time in manufacturing milk. It is only recently that official tests have been made of the dairy ability of the Ayrshire cow, which was instituted first by the Ayrshire Breeders' Association, followed by the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, and then by the Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Scotland.

In all three of these Associations we find the Ayrshire cow doing herself credit as a most profitable dairy cow both in quantity of milk and per cent. of butter fat.

The following are some of the best records made in each class, also a general average of the records since the testing was started, by the Association.

AMERICAN SHORT-HORN BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION.

SHORT-HORNS.

The foundation of this breed of cattle was laid by intelligent tenant farmers of England early in the 18th century. The early home of these cattle was in the Counties of Durham, Lincoln, York and Northumberland—formerly called North Umbria—and in early times they were called "Durhams" more often than Short-Horns. They were the first improved beef cattle in England and became very popular and soon were widely distributed. The early characteristics of the breed were excellence for both beef and milk, and these are the source of their popularity at the present time.

The fame of Short-Horns was extended over England during the period from 1800 to 1810 by Chas. and Robert Colling, who fed a steer and a white twin heifer up to enormous weights and then exhibited them over the kingdom. The steer is said to have weighed 3,400 at 10 years old and his dead weight, including hide, was 2,620 lbs. So successful was he as a show proposition that fabulous prices were offered for him.

The first Short-Horns imported in the United States were brought over in 1790. From 1820 to 1850 large numbers were brought over by importing companies from Ohio, Kentucky, and other States. They became so popular that their descendants soon spread to all parts of the United States and for many years were the only imported beef cattle in this country. Short-Horns have been exported to every civilized country and they are to-day more numerous and more widely distributed than any breed. They have brought the highest prices, both at private and public sale, of any cattle. In a public sale in 1875, Lord Dunmore, Stirling Castle, Scotland, sold Duke of Connaught for $25,000, the highest price ever paid for a bull of any breed. Sept. 10, 1873, at New York Mills, 109 head made an average at public sale of $3,504, the 8th Duchess of Geneva selling for $40,600. This is the sensational cattle sale of all history, where the bidders seemed to cast business discretion and even common sense to the winds.

A sale more within the confines of reason, and one that ought to interest Ohio Stockmen, was made at Xenia, Ohio, June 8, 1870, by Daniel McMillan, where 74 head made an average of $864.60.

The officers are as follows: Abram Renick, President, Winchester, Ky.; F. W. Harding, Vice President, Waukesha, Wis.; D. W. Smith, Treasurer, Springfield, Ill.; John W. Groves, Secretary, Chicago, Ill.

THE AMERICAN POLLED HEREFORD BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION.

HISTORY OF POLLED HEREFORD CATTLE.

Polled Hereford cattle, that is the Double Standard or purebred strain, were first bred by Warren Gammon, of Des Moines, Iowa, who, during the year 1901 wrote to every member of the American Hereford Breeders' Association asking whether or not said breeder had ever bred a purebred Hereford bull or cow that was naturally polled or hornless. From the 1,500 replies received he learned of fourteen head of such "freaks" or variations. Four of them were bulls and ten were females. The four bulls and seven of the cows were bought by Mr. Gammon and from these variations the Polled Hereford breed was developed.

With the four unrelated bulls, in-breeding was avoidable and by crossing the freak bulls on registered horned Hereford cows a large number of polled calves were obtained of very fashionable breeding and good individuality.

Double Standard Polled Herefords are identical in all particulars with the Standard Horned Hereford, except that they are hornless. A certain per cent. of them have small scurs or button-like growths where the horns naturally appear, but these animals with scurs breed a large portion of perfectly polled calves even when mated with horned cattle.

The highest price yet paid for a Polled Hereford is $1,500, for which sum Polled Assurance, 193,115 (29), was sold at the age of four years.

They have been shown in competition with horned Herefords at various State Fairs and expositions and have always ranked well up in the money.

They are now found in all the beef producing states of the United States, in Hawaii, Mexico, and Canada.

The American Polled Hereford Breeders' Association was organized in 1900, and the Double Standard Record opened in 1901.

The present officers of the Association are: J. E. Green, President, Muncie, Ind.; B. O. Gammon, Secretary-Treasurer, Des Moines, Iowa; B. Johnson, Chairman of Board of Directors, Richmond, Ind.

RED POLLED CATTLE CLUB OF AMERICA.

ORIGIN AND EARLY HISTORY OF RED POLLS.

Hornless or polled cattle have existed in the county of Suffolk, England, from time immemorial. The probability seems to be that they were introduced soon after the Roman occupation.

Bede says that the folk who settled in Eastern England after the Romans had gone, brought with them their slaves, their cattle, and all live stock. Certain it is the breed has existed in Suffolk as far back as we can trace the history.

Of the Norfolk strain of the breed, Mr. H. F. Euren, in the account prepared for the Herd Book says: "The files of the Norfolk Mercury show as early as the year 1778 there were whole dairies of polled cows in Norfolk."

The year 1846 may be taken as the date from which the Norfolk and Suffolk varieties merged into each other, so as to be spoken of as one and the same breed.

Red Polls are red in color with polled heads. They are a Dual-purpose breed, the cows producing a profit from the dairy, and when dry fatten very readily, making a fine butcher's carcass.

The males when steered and fed out are found to be fine growers and finish well.

Red Polls are found in England, Australia, S. Africa, S. America, Central America and North America. The largest numbers are found in England and United States.

The Red Polled Cattle Club was organized in 1883, incorporated under laws of Illinois in 1888.

AMERICAN DEVON CATTLE CLUB.

DEVON CATTLE.

As to the origin of the Devon breed of cattle I quote from James Sinclair's history of Devon Cattle: "When Archdeacon Paley introduced his argument upon Natural Theology by first supposing a stone and secondly supposing a watch to have been found upon a heath," he used an illustration which may be partly adapted to the question of the origin of the Devon breed of cattle. In the absence of direct and connected evidence either on the one hand of the descent of the Devon from the aboriginal race of cattle in Britain, or on the other hand of the introduction of the parent stock of that breed from a foreign country, we may take Dr. Paley's illustration of the stone accidentally struck by the traveler's foot and ask concerning the Devon as the traveler is supposed to ask concerning the stone, "How did it come to be here."

To go further into the history or origin of the breed would consume too much of your space. We know the Devon is here and just when the first Devon came to America. Many of the Pilgrim fathers coming from Devon no doubt would or did bring their red cow along, as one writer puts it "No doubt the first furrow turned on the New England coast was turned by a Devon ox at the plow."

Some of the characteristics of the breed are their prepotency to stamp their color, etc., on their offspring, thus showing that they have long been bred to their color and stoman. They are hardy and are one of the best beef breeds extant. While not growing as large as some of the other beef breeds their quality has no superior as to weight, steers at 2 years old weigh as high as 17½ hundred weight and bulls from 18 to 22 hundred, cows from 1,000 to 1,500 lbs. In 1623 Mr. Winslow imported Devons into Massachusetts; in 1800 Wintrop & Devonport imported Devons into Massachusetts; in 1805 General Eaton imported Devons into New York; in 1817 Mr. Patterson imported Devons into Baltimore, Md. Others were imported 1818, 1825, 1835 and on up to 1884 and 1886. John Hudson imported Devons into Illinois in 1893, and in 1899 Dr. J. C. Morris of Philadelphia, Pa., imported Devons to his West Chester farm near Philadelphia. Mr. John Hudson of Illinois, took many prizes on his Devons at the Chicago fat stock shows, having shown some very fat and fine steers. Most of the Devons now trace back to the Patterson importation of 1817. Some of the earlier importers did not keep a strict record of their breeding. Devons are scattered over most of the states; probably not many in the middle west. Many good herds are found in the eastern states, also in the southern states and Texas has many Devons. Devons are considered a general purpose breed or farmer's cow; they give a good quality of milk, testing as high as 6 to 7% of butter fat. The steers grow large and are easily kept, are good rustlers, and when given the proper care will give the feeder as much profit as any breed. The Devon Cattle Club of the United States was organized in 1885 at Pittsburgh, Pa., securing the volumes of the record from James Buckingham of Zanesville, Ohio, who up to that time had kept a record of the breed and issued four volumes of the herd book. In your library you will no doubt find all the volumes of the Devon Record.

Devons are found in many countries: England, South America, Canada, Australia, Brazil and East Africa, being imported into the above countries from England. An Australian writes that he has recently gone in for Devons more extensively on account of the way in which his Devons survived the drouth compared with other breeds. Another Australian grazier writes: "I intend raising more Devon bulls as the butchers all want the Devon cross." We might go on giving the experience of Devon breeders in all sections, but the above is sufficient to show their merits.

The officers are: J. Cheston Morris, President, Philadelphia, Pa.; L. P. Sisson, Secretary, Harvey, Ill.

THE POLLED DURHAM BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION.

The American Polled Durham Association was organized November, 1889, and voted November 18, 1890, to reorganize as a stock company, under the name of The Polled Durham Breeders' Association. The association is incorporated under Illinois law, and its annual meeting place is Chicago.

There are two branches of Polled Durhams. Originally, the cattle recorded were grade Short Horns, the foundation being native muley cows showing Short Horn characteristics. Cows of this kind were bred to Short Horn bulls and the progeny, which were naturally hornless, were recorded and known as Single Standard Polled Durhams. The other branch, known as Double Standards, are pure Short Horn in blood, being the progeny of "Sports", described as Short Horns dropped naturally hornless.

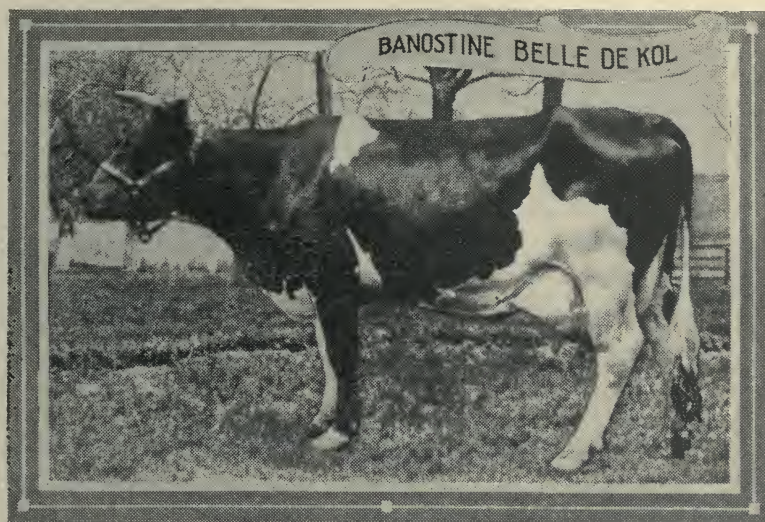

Purely an American breed, originated in the Ohio Valley, they have been disseminated from New York to Oregon and from Michigan to Texas, a few exported to Canada, Mexico, and South America.

The record price for a cow at public sale is $2,500.00, and one seven months heifer calf, at an Ohio sale, brought $1,005.00. Bulls have sold publicly at $1,000.00, and one at private sale for $1,500.00, is believed to be the record price for bulls.

Polled Durhams are owned by more than 2,200 people. At present ninety per cent. of the Polled Durhams recorded are "Double Standard." Ohio was the first state to recognize them as a distinct breed and give them a class in the State Fair premium list.

A description of the Short Horn fits the Polled Durham, with this difference only—the Polled Durham has the increased advantage of being naturally hornless.
